Joe Gans Is a Wonder Who Will Be Long Remembered

Here is a little boost for Mr. Joseph Gans, which was written at the ringside of the Gans-Unholz fight. Joe Gans will be appreciated after he has retired from the ring, but not until then. Those who have sat by the ringside and seen him battling away for the past fifteen years or more have become blasé to his matchless prowess. Will the ring ever see another fighter like him? Will there ever be another champion of his worth and enduring quality? These were a few thoughts that flickered through the minds of the lovers of boxing as they watched him toy with the young, sturdy Unholz Thursday night. Think of it! For nearly two decades this somber-faced negro has been achieving conquests, beating the very best fighters of the time, and today finds him the undisputed champion of his class and the class above him—the welterweight division. Old Alexander never had a clearer title to the world, nor did the massive and ponderous Jeffries in his day, than one Joseph Gans has at present. Where is there a lightweight now who has more than an outside chance with him? There isn't any. Gans is monarch of all he surveys. He is the king of kings. Champions come and champions go, but this one seems to go on forever. The point has been made that Gans is not the man he was, say, five years ago. That may be a fact, but he can deteriorate a heap lot yet and still be the best man of his class. It is amazing the great many fighters Gans has seen come and go since he shed his armor in the arena. There have been hundreds. The great Dixon was only four years old when Joe entered the world, and it has been about ten years since the former was beating all comers. Tom Sharkey was one year old when Gans was born. Young Corbett is six years younger, and so is Terry McGovern. Eddie Hanton is eleven years younger. Jack O'Brien is four years younger. Kid Lavigne, who has been down and out ten years, is only five years Gans' senior. Joe Walcott, another great champion whose sun has set, is but two years older. Tommy Ryan is four years older, and he left the ring several years ago. Benny Yanger, who has almost been forgotten, is eight years younger; great lightweights like Frank Erne, Geo. McFadden, Spike Sullivan, Jack O'Brien, Jack Daly, Dal Hawkins, Kid McPhartland and Martin Flaherty, were fighting when Gans was battling for recognition. One and all have passed out of the arena. In point of age they have had little if anything on the present champion. It is by comparison with these knights of the padded glove that Joe's genius shines the brightest.

RACKET WIELDERS TO MAUI

Honolulu tennis players are planning to take advantage of a very cordial invitation extended them by the Puunene Athletic Club to go to Maui on August 12. That date has been set apart for several years past as a proper time to celebrate a harvest home festival. The tennis tournament will be part of the day's program of sports, which will be brought to a fitting close with a grand ball in the evening.

SPORTIVE SPLURGES

The Waialea schoolboys last Saturday defeated the Waialea team on the latter's field, by a score of 6 to 4, in a closely played game of baseball.

The Kamanuwal Athletic Club has disorganized and disposed of its interests in the Kalaniana'ole League to Robert Akeo and Cornelius Aiu.

The Diamond Head A. C. will hold a meeting at 7:30 o'clock this evening, at the usual place.

What sort of baseball will the Jewels play Saturday next? Beware of the smoker!

SPEED PHENOMENON

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 21.—The University of Virginia claims to have a new sprinting champion in James A. Rector. The young runner is credited with covering a hundred yards in 9.2-5 seconds recently, and is being hailed as the greatest runner who ever lived. In addition to clipping a fifth of a second off Dan Kelly's record, he defeated Smithson in a special dash last winter. Rector is a candidate for the Olympic team.

Frank Chance of the Chicago Club claims that Kling and Sullivan of the National League, Sullivan and Criger of the American League stand out alone as the greatest catchers of the day.

"Young" Nelson Wants a Fight—Has a Fine Record

"Young" Nelson, the pugilist, whose real name is Jacob Tavares, wants a fight. Tavares, or rather Nelson, is known to all the fight fans who followed the game in this city when the sport was widely indulged in. And they all know his enviable record. He has been defeated but once during his career, and that was when he gave away eight pounds in weight, and fought very light himself.

Nelson would like to meet Corporal Bird, if that fighter can make 127 pounds. Nelson could make as low as 125 now, without reducing strength. But he can fight at a heavier weight if he wishes.

He was challenged by Bird once, but the corporal did not come through after the challenge had been accepted. For this reason, and others, Nelson is anxious to meet the soldier in the ring.

Nelson has an interesting record. He has done all of his fighting here. He went ten rounds with Jack McFadden and the referee called the fight a draw. He put Ernie Heine down and out in two rounds. He went four fast and hard rounds with Harris, and gained the decision in the end. The last fight in which he figured here he lost. It was a go with Jack McFadden, the second time the two met, and Jack was fighting at 130 while Nelson was at 122 pounds. In the eleventh round the thing was ended by the knockout route.

The boy is clever and has a hard punch, and it is said that he is backed by one of the most prominent of the fight fans in town—a man who has the coin to make a fight stick at all odds, or to put up a purse.

He makes his challenge officially through the Bulletin. It is open to any man of his weight—125 pounds—in the Territory, bar none.

AALA PARK GOSSIP

J. Ross, the greatest player of the local Nippon nine, sent a "beaut" to Wakita at center in the sixth inning, but the latter fell on a mango peel and fumbled the ball, which gave the Banazals four runs on the error.

The Chinese "White Sox" team will join the Kalaniana'ole League. Enos Vincent, the local attorney, will probably be elected president of this league for 1908.

Makanui had the luck of walking every time he was at bat last Sunday in the game between the Palamas and Kaalas.

Lee Yen, the secretary of the Chinese Aloha, gives notice that there will be a meeting of that club next Sunday.

Vice President A. K. Vierra, of the Riversiders, who is a candidate for Supervisor, has joined the "bicechers" party.

Espinda and Medeiros pitched the game of their lives last Sunday, when the Palamas met the Kaalas.

Hong Chack's team captured the two games from the Koolapoko's last Saturday and Sunday.

Manager K. Yasumori of the Japanese A. C. is dreaming of championship honors nowadays.

There will be a regular meeting of the Riverside League Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

English played a star game for the Aloha. He was in the box for six innings.

The Chinese Aloha need a twirler.

FOR WALKERS

Edward Payson Weston, the great pedestrian, who last summer at the age of 70 years walked from Portland, Maine, to Chicago, beating a record he had made fifty years before, is now in San Francisco, where he has persuaded 5,000 people to join his walking club. Here is his panacea for all ills:

In the morning place a half-pint full of rock salt (the kind they put on the ice to freeze cream) in an earthen basin or washbowl. Then pour a quart of boiling water over it. After it is dissolved add five quarts of cold water.

sleep, sop your feet up and down in this footbath for four or five minutes.

Then wipe thoroughly dry, especially between the toes. Then with your hand sop a little half-diluted alcohol over each foot and LET IT DRY IN.

This bath will not only take the fever out of your feet, but within a month will cause corns to disappear. The salt water bath softens the corns and the alcohol burns them out.

They go away gradually on the towel.

It will strengthen one greatly to give the body a salt-water shower bath once a week, as it cleanses the pores of grease and the component parts of soap.

The recipe has been found infallible by Mr. Weston.
